

Marici Zivic with Kandyce Aust of the University of Hartford.

Marici Zivic Receives Anchor Award

On October 22, 2011, Marici Zivic, founder and president of Zivic, Carr and Associates, Inc., was awarded the prestigious Anchor Award by the University of Hartford’s Alumni Association. This award honors alumni “who have distinguished themselves by achieving the highest level of professional accomplishments and who possess absolute standards of integrity and character to positively reflect and enhance the prestige of The University of Hartford.”

The seventh annual Anchor Award Ceremony was held at the University’s Harry Jack Gray Center. Each college within the University chooses an award recipient, and Ms. Zivic was selected by her alma mater, the College of Engineering, Technology and Architecture.

Ms. Zivic began her engineering career in her native country of Chile. She came to Connecticut in 1984 to study Civil Engineering at the University of Hartford. She worked for the Connecticut

Department of Transportation for more than 20 years, on various projects ranging from highway design to bridge safety and evaluation. In 1988, Ms. Zivic pursued her dream of starting her own company. In 2009, she returned to Zivic, Carr and Associates, and under her stewardship the company has grown significantly

“I am extremely honored to have been chosen by the University of Hartford Alumni Association as one of the 2011 Anchor Award recipients,” said Ms. Zivic. “I have worked hard to make Zivic, Carr and Associates the thriving company that it is today, and I would not have been able to accomplish this without my background at the University of Hartford.”

Marici Zivic with Hisham Alnajjar, Ph.D., Professor and Associate Dean of the College of Engineering, Technology, and Architecture (CETA).